VAKOORI

ARCHITECTURAL FILM PUBLICATION

BRAND AND MISSION COPY

What Vakoori is, what it stands for, and what Season 1 sets out to do

01

What Vakoori is

Homes that slow you down.

ONE LINE

Vakoori is an architectural film publication: quiet portraits of singular homes and the landscapes that shape them.

THE LONGER VERSION

Each film follows one home across a full day, from first light to last. The camera moves slowly and the sound is real: wind, water, a door, footsteps. The aim is simple. For a few minutes the viewer is somewhere else, inside the light and the materials of a place, and a little more attentive when they return.

02

What Vakoori stands for

PLACE BEFORE STYLE

A great home answers its setting: the earth, the weather, the light, and the culture around it.

MATERIALS THAT BELONG

Local stone, earth, timber, and thatch, and the hands that shaped them.

THE PEOPLE BEHIND THE WORK

The architect, the builder, the craftsperson, and the family who lives there, in their own words and with full credit.

SLOWNESS

Unhurried films for homes that reward looking. Nothing staged, nothing rushed.

RESPECT

An invited visit, a small kit, and a film shared with the people in it before it is published.

03

The mission

IN ONE SENTENCE

To capture homes that are singular because of where they stand, and to carry the viewer inside them.

THE FULLER STATEMENT

Vakoori documents the people behind the world’s most singular homes. It looks for houses that grow out of their place, shaped by the land, the climate, and the culture around them, and films them with patience, so that watching feels like being there.

04

Season 1

THE IDEA

Four months, three countries. Season 1 follows the winter sun through Mexico, Chile, and Costa Rica, where earth, sea, and jungle decide how a house is built.

MEXICO

Earth, concrete, and timber. Homes shaped by the craft of the people who built them, where hand-finished surfaces and local materials tell you where you are.

CHILE

Cliffs, beaches, and forested shores. Houses of raw concrete and timber, built to meet the weather and the horizon.

COSTA RICA

Pavilions in the jungle. Timber and steel houses on slopes and stilts, built to rest lightly on the land and open to the air.

THE TIMELINE

Winter 2026–27 for filming. Films are published one at a time, beginning in early 2027.

05

How a film is made

PREPARATION

Every film begins before arrival, studying the flow of the space, how the sunlight moves through it, and when the tide turns.

A FULL ARC OF DAY

The home is filmed from first light to last, so the film shows not only how the place looks, but how it feels to be there.

ONE PERSON, A SMALL KIT

No crew and no disruption. The visit is one or two days, at the pace of the household.

IN THEIR OWN WORDS

The architect or the owner speaks about the design, the materials, and why the house sits where it does.

REVIEWED FOR ACCURACY

Names, details, and credits are checked with the people in the film before it is published.

06

How homes are chosen

WHAT IT LOOKS FOR

A house shaped by its setting. Materials that come from the place. One clear idea. A person who can speak for it. A landscape it can be seen against, on its own terms.

WHAT IT IS NOT

A listing, a showroom, or a staged set. Homes are chosen for what they are.

07

For architects and designers

THE INVITATION

If your work grows out of its place, in its materials, its climate, and its culture, Vakoori would like to hear about it.

WHAT A FEATURE INCLUDES

A finished film of the home. Vertical clips to share on your own channels. Full credit to you and your collaborators. A review for accuracy before publication. No cost for Season 1.

08

For homeowners

THE VISIT

One or two days at the home, in the light that suits it best. Nothing is moved or staged without your say.

YOUR HOME, YOUR TERMS

You decide what is filmed and what stays private. The film is shared with you before anyone else sees it.

09

Questions

IS THERE A COST TO BE FEATURED?

No. Season 1 homes are chosen for what they are, and featuring a home carries no fee.

WHO CHOOSES THE HOMES?

Vakoori does, for the idea of the house and its place, not for what it pays.

HOW LONG DOES A VISIT TAKE?

One or two days, plus a conversation with the architect or owner.

CAN I USE THE FILM?

Yes. You receive the finished film and vertical clips for your own channels, with credit to everyone involved.

CAN I REVIEW IT FIRST?

Yes. Facts, names, and credits are reviewed with you before publication. Creative decisions remain with the filmmaker.

WHAT ABOUT PRIVACY?

Anything you prefer to keep private stays private, including the exact address on request.

10

About the filmmaker

SHORT BIO

Vakoori was founded by Mike Savoie, a filmmaker, photographer, and visual storyteller. His eye was shaped by travel across nearly thirty countries and a deep love of spaces that transport you. Based in Cambridge, Massachusetts, he films homes with cinematic patience, until every frame earns its place.

11

Ready-to-use lines

SHORT DESCRIPTION (25 WORDS)

Vakoori is an architectural film publication. Season 1 travels through Mexico, Chile, and Costa Rica, filming homes shaped by where they stand.

SOCIAL BIO

Architectural film publication. Singular homes, shaped by place. Season 1: Mexico · Chile · Costa Rica.

EMAIL SIGNATURE

Vakoori · Architectural film publication · Cambridge, Massachusetts · Filming worldwide

PRESS BOILERPLATE

Vakoori is an architectural film publication based in Cambridge, Massachusetts. Founded by filmmaker Mike Savoie, it makes quiet, slow portraits of singular homes and the people behind them. Season 1, filmed across Mexico, Chile, and Costa Rica in winter 2026–27, looks at houses shaped by their landscapes.

ALTERNATIVE HERO LINES

Homes shaped by where they stand. · Films that take you inside. · Where design listens to the land. · Architecture, at the pace of the light.

NOTES BEFORE PUBLISHING

Things to confirm

— Commitments. “No cost,” “you decide what is filmed,” and “reviewed for accuracy” are promises. Keep them only if they match how you will really work.

— Usage rights. Decide exactly what architects and owners may do with the film and clips, and write it down before the first shoot.

— Timeline. “Early 2027” is a plan. Soften it if the schedule might slip.

— Route order. The countries are listed as Mexico, Chile, Costa Rica. Match the order to your final route.

— Where it goes. Sections 07 and 08 suit the About or Contact page. Keep them off the home page so the site stays a publication.

— Spanish. Architects in Mexico, Chile, and Costa Rica may prefer a Spanish version of sections 07 to 09.